

I am voicing my opinion about the Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) challenge to the Indiana Telephone Privacy law. The CBA is attempting to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption on Indiana consumers and I am adamantly opposed to this. I can actually eat meals with my family now without the phone ringing - if I want to talk to my bank OR any other person or persons I have an "established business relationship" with I will call them, otherwise there is no reason for them to be calling me. Please do not force Indiana to go backwards, leave our Telephone Privacy Law alone, it is working just as it was intended to.
